Ideas for Dating your Partner at Home

MOVIE NIGHT

Rent a movie that neither of you have seen before and get our your typical movie treats (candy, popcorn, a pop)! No phones or computers! This is time to snuggle up together!

MOVIE NIGHT

Each of you picks 1 of your favorite movie that your partner has never seen before. After each movie, explain why you love it so much and see what your partner thinks. No hard feelings though if they don't love it as much as you do! No phones or computers; it's time to snuggle up!

BOARD GAMES

Break out some board games and have fun playing together. The important thing? Put away technology. This is your time to have fun together! I would also keep in mind that - if you are very competitive - winning shouldn't matter tonight.

LOVE LETTERS

Open a bottle of wine or another cocktail of choice, and take the time to write your partner a love letter. Tell them why you are thankful for them and your relationship. Then, read the letter outloud to your partner or switch letters.

A YEAR IN REVIEW

It is important to look back and reflect on where you two have gone and what you have accomplished or experienced. Take a little time to look back on the past year and complete a review. Collect them over the years and have a fabulous and heart felt way to look back fondly!

VIDEO GAMES

Maybe video games isn't normally your thing, but it doesn't mean it can't be fun! I encourage you to break out the oldies, especially if one of you is a more experienced player. You can even buy some of the old arcade games! If you get frustrated with one game, move on to another!

WINE & CHEESE NIGHT

Go to the store and purchase a few different cheeses to try with a loaf of fresh bread and some crackers. If you don't know where to start, try a local cheese store or someone behind the counter. Then, grab wine! Don't worry about whether you are doing it right; just have fun trying something new!

FLIGHTS

Make your own flights to try with a beverage of your choice. You could grab a couple bottles of wine to taste test. You could go to a liquor store that will let you make your own 6 pack of craft brews. Or, why not taste test a few ciders?!

BOOK CLUB FOR 2

Choose something that you would both like to read and buy two copies! It doesn't have to be a novel either; choose whatever is interesting to you. Take time and read it together on the couch, and - of course - TALK about it! Even if you don't want to read the same thing, reading together on the couch sounds wonderful!

FANCY DINNER

Who says you need to go out to get dressed up? Make something easy for dinner, like a dish that comes out of the crock pot or even a take home pizza. What your eating doesn't matter, but presentation does; make sure you both put a little extra effort into getting dressed for dinner.

COMPARE PERSONALITY TESTS

It's time to see where you land on different issue and spectrums! Choose a few unique personality tests and get going! We love the "which character would you be" from all our favorite shows and movies. This is all about comparing answers and getting to know each other better.

THEME NIGHT

Plan a whole night around one particular theme. Italian? Make some fabulous pasta, listen to some Sinatra, drink red wine and watch a movie set in Italy.
What about childhood? Make favorite meals from when you were kids, look through year books, and watch your favorite movie from high school. The sky is the limit!

MASSAGE NIGHT

What normal person doesn't love a massage? Especially from their partner! So pick up some massage oil or lotion, light some candles, put on relaxing music and be good to one another!

WOULD YOU RATHER?

Print off some "Would you rather?" questions and spend the night asking ridiculous questions. Conversation will probably wander, and that's great! Hopefully you will learn something you would have never guessed about your partner!

MAKE YOUR OWN

What is something you love to do together at home? I would love to know as I continue to build a whole collection of great date ideas!
